

Check out the following Earth Day events all around New York City!

WE ACT for Environmental Justice Earth Day Celebration!

Saturday, April 19th, 12:00 – 6:00PM

163 West 125th Street @ Adam Clayton Powell Blvd.

Harlem's Only Green Festival! On the Plaza, Harlem State Office Building, 163 West 125th Street & ACP, Jr. Blvd. Noon to 6 p.m. Green products, services and demonstrations! Healthy food, art contest and more!

Click here for more information:

<http://www.weact.org/Portals/7/Earth%20Day%202008%20Flyer.pdf>

Earth Fair 2008

Friday, April 18th, 12:00 – 7:00PM

Saturday, April 19th, 11:00 – 5:00PM

The festival will be on Vanderbilt Avenue, the street that runs along the West side of Grand Central Terminal in midtown Manhattan.

Once again we will come together to learn and have fun with hundreds of environmental non-profits, green companies, kid's art activities and stellar musical performances.

Click here for more information:

http://www.earthdayny.org/earthday_2008.html

Green Apple Festival and Earth Day Celebration in Central Park

Hosted by the Central Park Conservancy and the Green Apple Festival

Sunday, April 20th, 12:00 – 4:00PM

Rumsey Playfield in Central Park

This fun and free event will feature a jam-packed schedule of activities including live musical performances, planting and mulching projects, tree care and composting demonstrations, face painting, environmental education, and crafts with recycled materials.

Click here for more information:

<http://www.centralparknyc.org/site/DocServer/EarthDay-poster08.pdf?docID=1201>

Earth Week at the Prospect Park Audubon Center in Brooklyn

April 21st – 27th

The Audubon Center is located inside the Lincoln Road/Ocean Avenue entrance to Prospect Park in Brooklyn (Subways: Q or B train to the Prospect Park station)

Learn how to do your part through lectures, tours, activities, film screenings, workshops, recyclable crafts, and a daily exhibit

Click here for more information:

http://www.prospectpark.org/calendar/audubon_center_events?alid=71142×tamp=1207026000

Earth Night 2008

Tuesday, April 22nd, 6:00 – 10:00PM

Earth Night will be held at “The Park”, a restaurant/lounge in the meatpacking district is located at 118 10th Avenue, at 18th Street.

Earth Day New York and Green Drinks will co-host a special social networking party and eco-fashion show at The Park in honor of Earth Day. Earth Night is designed to bring New Yorkers together to celebrate Earth Day and strengthen ties within the City’s environmental community in a fun and informal setting